difficult thing to determine, for the reason that the bright nucleus is surrounded by so dense a nebulosity that its outline cannot be clearly seen. As it appears through the great tele scope, the nucleus may be anywhere from one hundred to five hundred miles in diameter. The nebulosity surrounding the nucleus extends many thousands of miles; the length of Baltimore, - 2 4 3 0 2 1 0 2 1-15 the tail is somewhere from five to ten millions Yale College, 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 2 1-4 of miles, and is increasing every night.
